FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

E-Government Implementation and Practice in Developing Countries

Hershey, PA – March 19, 2013– IGI Global, an international publishing company specializing in high-quality research publications in the fields of computer science and information technology management, is pleased to announce the May 2013 release of E-Government Implementation and Practice in Developing Countries, edited by Zaigham Mahmood (University of Derby, UK).

E-Government Implementation and Practice in Developing Countries provides research on the current actions being taken by developing countries towards the design, development, and implementation of e-government policies. This book will discuss current frameworks and strategies that are useful for project managers, government officials, researchers, and students interested or involved in the development and implementation of e-government planning. This book is part of the Advances in Electronic Government, Digital Divide, and Regional Development Book Series and features a chapter written by Danilo Piaggese, Walter Castelnovo, and Linamara Rizzo Battistella entitled, “ICT for Social Inclusion and Equal Opportunities: CETI-D, An E-Governance Good Practice in Brazil.”
